2.6 PRIVACY: In order to operate and provide the Service, we collect certain information about you. As part of the Service, we may also automatically upload information about your computer or device, your use of the Service, and Service performance. Caduceus protects that information and will not sell email address, names or progress kept in our system. This data is held encrypted on our system for only our technical support and instructor access (b). You will promptly notify Caduceus of any known or suspected unauthorized use(s) of your subscription to the Service, or any known or suspected breach of security, including loss, theft, or unauthorized disclosure of your password or credit card information. Such notification should be sent via email to support@cipcourses.com. Caduceus will not be liable for any loss or damage resulting from your failure to safeguard your password and account.
